Our Meditation for Lent

“Occasionally a person, often a parent, will come to me, expressing a desire to deepen his or her Christian life—finally take it seriously, be more intentional. The desire is real, genuine, beautiful. For better or worse, they come to me for advice.

But then I tell them simply to go to confession, pray daily, read the Bible, and stop treating youth sports like a religion; and then I tell them never ever miss Sunday Mass. Often, that’s when I lose them, for they weren’t looking for that.

Looking for what? I don’t know. Mostly, I think they’re after a feeling, maybe a perspective, a devotion—something tinged with sentimentality, nothing that calls into question practices, habits, the forms of life, ethics; nothing like repentance and change.

Which is where so many of us are, where we’re stuck. And it’s also why Catholicism seems repeatedly to underdeliver. But it’s not Catholicism. It’s us.

So often we’re like Naaman, not listening to Elisha; we don’t take the simple advice. Catholicism is no gimmick, no perspective or feeling. It’s salvation and the daily work of holiness. It doesn’t conform to your expectations. It never will.

Which is why if you want real Catholicism, work at it. Show up, change your habits, live the precepts of the Church. It’s not complicated or sexy or trendy. It’s just daily work, sacred habits, piety in stability. Anyone telling you anything else is selling you something.

So, if you want truly freeing Catholicism, the sort that changes your life, don’t chase after gimmicks or feelings. Just get to Mass; live the sacraments; let the timing and shape of liturgies shape your life. Do it until it becomes habit, the spiritual structure of your being.

Then you’ll be free. Then the noise and nonsense of the world, and even a lot of the noise and nonsense in the Church, will simply hush. And then you will find your God—in stillness.

But you can’t just claim it, buy it like some Amazon order. Because although it’s free, it’s costly. You have to shape and form your desire, a desire ready for God. Which is what religion is all about. Real practiced religion, that is—a rare find. Look for it. It’s close.”

Catholic Charities

Students have faced many obstacles when it comes to schooling during the pandemic. Luckily, Catholic Charities is there to help those who have a tougher time navigating them than others. One of the counselors shares, "At the start of the school year, Joey's mom wanted him to receive individual counseling again. I continue to work with Joey on learning new coping skills. Most recently we have been practicing positive self-talk when he is worried about school or sudden changes due to the COVID-19 pandemic. With the support of his mom and myself, Joey has demonstrated the ability to overcome sudden changes and transitions and building self-confidence. He is able to identify his own struggles as they come and work through them. "Your gift to Appeal 2022 helps children like Joey learn coping skills, self-confidence, and so much more. Donate today by visiting ccwny.org/donation or texting GIVEHOPE22 to 44321 today!

Food Pantry

As part of the family of parishes model, St. Josaphat's Church is proud to announce that its food pantry will now be serving Resurrection, Our Lady Help of Christians, and Queen of Martyrs. Any parishioners from either of these parishes in need of the pantry are more than welcome to use it. Simply call the rectory at 716-893-1086 to schedule an appointment. All calls and visits are confidential. The food pantry is open every Saturday from 9:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. to anyone wishing to drop off donations or seeking assistance from the pantry. Also, during Lent, donation containers will be made available at all the parishes for those wishing to contribute financially to the pantry. All proceeds go directly to the pantry, which relies entirely on generous contributions. Please join us in helping to feed the hungry and make a difference in someone's life.

Faith Formation classes will begin at 9- 9:45 am
